

powerful as the parts become more and more distant. In this difference between ardent speculations and cautious fears, it seems to me to be the wisest wisdom to abide by the present state of things, since that state of things is acknowledged, on all hands, to be singularly happy, prosperous and honorable. In all points of view, therefore, in which I can regard the subject, my judgment is decidedly unfavorable to the project of ANNEXING TEXAS TO THE UNITED STATES. "You have a Sparrow," such was the admonition of the ancient prudence—embellish it? We have a Republic gentlemen, of vast extent and unequalled natural advantages—a Republic full of interest in its origin, its history, its present condition, & its prospects for the future. Instead of aiming to enlarge its boundaries, let us seek rather to strengthen its union, to draw out its resources, to maintain and improve its institutions of religion and liberty, and thus to push it forward in its career of prosperity and glory."

I am, gentlemen, with most true regard,
Your obliged friend,
And obedient servant,
DANIEL WEBSTER.
